

Hebrews 8:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

In that he saith, A new covenant, he hath made the first old.
Now that which decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away.

Analysis

By calling it a 'new covenant,' God 'has made the first obsolete' (Greek 'pepalaiōken' - has made old/worn out). What is obsolete and aging 'is ready to vanish away.' This is pastoral courage - declaring God's clear intention to replace the old covenant system. Written before AD 70, this may have been fulfilled shortly after in the temple's destruction. The old covenant served its purpose and is now superseded by the superior new covenant in Christ.

Historical Context

The temple's destruction in AD 70 physically ended the Levitical system, confirming this prophecy. Yet even before that historical event, Christ's coming made the old covenant spiritually obsolete. It had pointed forward to Him; His arrival meant its purpose was fulfilled.
