

Hebrews 9:21

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Moreover he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry.

Analysis

Moses 'sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle and all the vessels of the ministry.' Even worship implements required blood purification, demonstrating the pervasiveness of sin's defilement. Nothing defiled can approach holy God. This thoroughness points to Christ's blood that 'purifies all things' (9:22), comprehensively dealing with sin's contamination. The entire worship system needed cleansing before it could function.

Historical Context

Exodus 40 describes the tabernacle dedication. The principle is clear: everything connected to approaching God must be purified by blood, teaching that sin affects all and blood atonement is necessary for any access to God.
