

Hosea 11:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

They shall walk after the LORD: he shall roar like a lion: when he shall roar, then the children shall tremble from the west.

Analysis

Roaring summons: 'They shall walk after the LORD: he shall roar like a lion: when he shall roar, then the children shall tremble from the west.' Future restoration: walking after YHWH, who roars like אֵרֵי (aryeh, lion). When He roars, בָּנִים (banim, children/sons) tremble from יָם (yam, west/sea). The lion roar, earlier judgment threat (5:14), becomes gathering call. Children trembling describes reverent response, hastening homeward. This demonstrates that God's power, exercised in judgment, also gathers in restoration. Christ the Lion of Judah conquers through sacrifice (Revelation 5:5-6).

Historical Context

The promise of regathering from west (Mediterranean region, including areas where northern exiles were scattered) anticipates restoration. While northern kingdom never returned corporately, the promise finds fulfillment in gospel ingathering: Christ gathering scattered Israel (John 11:52) and making Jews and Gentiles one people (Ephesians 2:14-16). The 'lion roar' imagery transforms from terror to summons—same mighty voice, different purpose. Joel 3:16 similarly depicts YHWH roaring from Zion. Historically, post-exilic return from Babylon fulfilled this partially for Judah; full fulfillment awaits Christ's second coming (Matthew 24:31).
