

Hosea 12:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And by a prophet the LORD brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preserved.

Analysis

Prophet-led exodus: 'And by a prophet the LORD brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preserved.' God used נָבִיא (navi, prophet—Moses) to bring Israel from Egypt and preserve (שָׁמַר, shamar—keep/guard) them. This emphasizes prophetic mediation: God working through chosen messengers. Moses as archetypal prophet (Deuteronomy 18:15-18) foreshadows Christ the ultimate Prophet. This demonstrates God's pattern: speaking through prophets, delivering through chosen instruments. Only Christ perfectly fulfills prophetic office (Acts 3:22-23).

Historical Context

Moses, though not always called 'prophet' in Exodus narrative, is identified as such in Deuteronomy 18:15,18, 34:10. The 'bringing out' recalls exodus; 'preserved' the wilderness period. Hosea reminds Israel: you owe existence to prophetic ministry—God spoke through Moses, delivered through him. Yet contemporary prophets (Hosea included) you reject. This demonstrates ingratitude: honoring ancient prophets while despising current ones. Jesus confronted identical pattern: building tombs for dead prophets while persecuting living ones (Matthew 23:29-36). Church history shows similar tendency: revering historical reformers while resisting contemporary reformation.
