

Isaiah 10:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Therefore shall the Lord, the Lord of hosts, send among his fat ones leanness; and under his glory he shall kindle a burning like the burning of a fire.

Analysis

God's judgment on Assyria is described as 'leanness' (wasting disease) among their fat ones (warriors/nobles) and 'burning like fire' under their glory. The imagery suggests consuming judgment—what appeared strong and glorious will be devoured. This demonstrates poetic justice—Assyria consumed nations, so God will consume Assyria. The physical descriptions (leanness, burning) may indicate literal plague and destruction, or metaphorically depict comprehensive judgment.

Historical Context

Fulfilled dramatically when God's angel destroyed 185,000 Assyrian soldiers besieging Jerusalem (701 BC, Isaiah 37:36). Sennacherib returned to Nineveh and was later assassinated by his sons (37:37-38). Ultimately, Babylon destroyed Nineveh (612 BC) with such completeness that the city burned for weeks, its 'glory' literally consumed. The 'leanness' and 'burning' proved both literal and metaphorical.

1. How does God's judgment often mirror the sins committed—poetic justice?
2. What does the contrast between outward glory and coming leanness teach about appearances?
3. How should we view worldly power and glory in light of its temporary nature?
