

Isaiah 10:17

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the light of Israel shall be for a fire, and his Holy One for a flame: and it shall burn and devour his thorns and his briars in one day;

Analysis

The 'light of Israel' and 'his Holy One' both refer to God, who becomes 'a fire' and 'a flame' to consume Assyria. The reference to burning 'his thorns and his briars' echoes earlier judgment imagery (9:18). 'In one day' emphasizes suddenness—comprehensive judgment executed swiftly. This demonstrates God's dual nature toward humanity: light and life to His people, consuming fire to His enemies. The same holy God who saves also judges. His holiness demands both.

Historical Context

Fulfilled when 185,000 Assyrian soldiers died 'in one night' (Isaiah 37:36; 2 Kings 19:35). What seemed impossible—destroying a massive army without battle—God accomplished in hours. The phrase 'in one day' wasn't hyperbole but literal prediction. This miracle vindicated God's sovereignty and demonstrated His power to protect His people while judging their enemies.

Study Questions

1. How is God simultaneously light to His people and consuming fire to His enemies?
2. What does the 'one day' destruction teach about God's ability to accomplish what seems impossible?
3. How should God's holiness produce both comfort (for believers) and fear (for unbelievers)?
