

Isaiah 10:26

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And the LORD of hosts shall stir up a scourge for him according to the slaughter of Midian at the rock of Oreb: and as his rod was upon the sea, so shall he lift it up after the manner of Egypt.

Analysis

God promises to stir up a scourge against Assyria like He did against Midian (Gideon's victory, Judges 7) and Egypt (Red Sea crossing). The 'rod upon the sea' recalls Moses's staff dividing the Red Sea. These historical parallels remind Israel that the same God who delivered them from previous oppressors will deliver from Assyria. The method emphasizes divine intervention—not human military might but miraculous acts. This demonstrates God's consistency—His character and power remain unchanged across generations.

Historical Context

Fulfilled when God's angel destroyed Sennacherib's army (701 BC)—a supernatural deliverance requiring no human military action, just like Gideon and the Exodus. The comparison to Midian and Egypt became proverbial—when God acts, armies are irrelevant. These historical examples strengthened Hezekiah's faith to resist Assyria, trusting God rather than surrendering or seeking foreign alliances.

Study Questions

1. How do God's past deliverances provide a pattern for trusting Him in present crises?
2. What does God's use of miraculous intervention teach about the futility of trusting human strength?
3. How can we strengthen our faith by remembering God's faithfulness in biblical history?
