

Isaiah 10:29

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

They are gone over the passage: they have taken up their lodging at Geba; Ramah is afraid; Gibeah of Saul is fled.

Analysis

Isaiah depicts the Assyrian invasion's advance toward Jerusalem with geographical precision. Each location named marks the enemy's northward approach from Samaria toward Judah's capital. 'They are gone over the passage'—crossing the border into Judean territory. 'Lodging at Geba'—establishing positions. The towns mentioned—Ramah, Gibeah—respond with fear and flight. This vivid description creates tension: the enemy advances relentlessly toward God's city. Yet the prophet's purpose is to highlight what happens when this unstoppable force meets the immovable Rock (verses 32-34).

Historical Context

The locations mentioned are real towns north of Jerusalem. Geba was about 6 miles north of Jerusalem; Ramah about 5 miles; Gibeah (Saul's hometown) about 3 miles. This geographical specificity suggests either prophetic vision of a future invasion or description of an actual campaign. Sennacherib's 701 BC invasion approached from the north after conquering Lachish to the southwest. The detailed geography emphasizes how close Assyria came to Jerusalem—and how miraculous their sudden defeat became.
