

Isaiah 11:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins.

Analysis

---

Righteousness and faithfulness are Messiah's clothing—His essential characteristics, not merely external qualities. The belt/girdle held garments together for work and battle, suggesting these virtues equip Christ for His mission. 'Righteousness' (perfect conformity to God's law) and 'faithfulness' (unwavering commitment to God's purposes) define His character completely. Unlike human leaders whose integrity wavers, Christ's righteousness and faithfulness never fail. This describes the Messiah's perfect qualification to save and judge.

Historical Context

Jesus perfectly embodied righteousness and faithfulness throughout earthly ministry—tempted yet sinless (Hebrews 4:15), perfectly obedient to the Father (John 8:29), faithful unto death (Philippians 2:8). His righteousness qualifies Him to be our substitute; His faithfulness ensures He completes salvation. This perfect character made Him the worthy Lamb (Revelation 5:9) and qualified High Priest (Hebrews 7:26).
