

Isaiah 25:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

O LORD, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things; thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth.

Analysis

O LORD, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name—After chapter 24's devastating judgment, chapter 25 erupts in worship. The personal pronouns emphasize covenant relationship: 'my God' (אֱלֹהַי, Elohai). I will exalt thee (אֲרוֹמִמְכָּה, aromimka) means to lift up, magnify, make great—responding to God's self-revelation in judgment with worship.

For thou hast done wonderful things (כִּי עָשִׂיתָ פִּלְאִים, ki asita pele)—The Hebrew פִּלְאִים (pele, wonderful things) refers to acts only God can perform, miraculous deeds that inspire awe. These aren't random miracles but purposeful demonstrations of divine power and character.

Thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth (עֲצוֹת מִכְחוּךְ אֱמוּנָה וְאֵמֶן, etsot merachok emunah omen)—God's ancient plans (from distant time) are utterly reliable. אֱמוּנָה (emunah, faithfulness) and אֵמֶן (omen, truth/stability) appear together emphasizing absolute dependability. What God planned long ago, He executes precisely—no failed promises, no adjusted plans. This grounds worship in God's proven character across history.

Historical Context

This thanksgiving psalm interrupts the apocalypse genre, showing appropriate response to divine judgment: worship. 'Counsels of old' suggests God's eternal decree, planned before creation, now unfolding in history. For Israel, this referenced promises to Abraham, David, and the prophets—all faithfully fulfilled. New Testament believers see even deeper fulfillment: God's eternal plan of redemption through Christ, 'foreordained before the foundation of the world' (1 Peter 1:20), executed precisely at the appointed time (Galatians 4:4). Paul celebrates this same theme: God's purpose 'from the beginning' now revealed (Ephesians 3:9-11).
