

Isaiah 26:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For he bringeth down them that dwell on high; the lofty city, he layeth it low; he layeth it low, even to the ground; he bringeth it even to the dust.

Analysis

"For he bringeth down them that dwell on high; the lofty city, he layeth it low; he layeth it low, even to the ground; he bringeth it even to the dust."

This verse explains why God is trustworthy (note the causal "for")—He brings down every competing power. The repetitive structure hammers home God's sovereign reversal of human pride. "He bringeth down them that dwell on high" (הֵשַׁח יוֹשְׁבֵי מְרוֹם/ki heshach yoshvei marom)—heshach means to bow down, bring low, humble. Yoshvei marom (dwellers on high) refers both to literal elevated cities built for defense and to proud people exalting themselves.

"The lofty city, he layeth it low" (נִשְׁגַּבָּה יִשְׁפִּילֵנָה/qiryah nishgabah yashpilennah)—nishgabah means exalted, lofty, inaccessible, set on high. Yashpilennah means to bring low, humble, abase. The threefold repetition that follows—"he layeth it low, even to the ground; he bringeth it even to the dust"—uses Hebrew poetic intensification. Each phrase descends further: high → low → ground → dust, dramatizing total and complete humiliation. What human pride elevates to the heavens, God brings down to dust. This echoes Mary's Magnificat: "He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree" (Luke 1:52).

Historical Context

Isaiah witnessed Assyria's systematic destruction of fortified cities throughout the ancient Near East. Cities like Samaria (722 BCE) and Lachish (701 BCE) fell to Assyrian siege engines despite strong fortifications. Yet Isaiah prophesied that Assyria itself—the 'lofty city' of proud human power—would fall. This was fulfilled when God destroyed 185,000 Assyrian soldiers besieging Jerusalem (Isaiah 37:36). Later, Babylon—another 'lofty city'—fell to Persia (539 BCE). The pattern continues through history: every proud empire eventually crumbles. Only God's city stands forever.
