

Isaiah 3:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Say ye to the righteous, that it shall be well with him: for they shall eat the fruit of their doings.

Analysis

Amid judgment, Isaiah offers hope to the individual righteous. 'Say ye to the righteous, it shall be well with him' promises divine protection and blessing even during national judgment. The principle that the righteous will 'eat the fruit of their doings' establishes individual accountability—corporate judgment doesn't nullify personal faith's benefits. This anticipates Ezekiel's teaching on individual responsibility (Ezekiel 18).

Historical Context

Righteous individuals like Daniel, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel were preserved through Babylonian exile. God's faithfulness to His own continues even when covenant curses fall on the nation.
