

Isaiah 34:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Come near, ye nations, to hear; and hearken, ye people: let the earth hear, and all that is therein; the world, and all things that come forth of it.

Analysis

This prophetic summons calls all nations to witness God's sovereign judgment. The Hebrew imperative "qirbû" (come near) demonstrates God's universal authority over all peoples, not just Israel. This eschatological oracle introduces themes that culminate in Revelation's final judgment, where every knee shall bow. The cosmic scope ("earth...world") reveals that God's justice extends beyond temporal kingdoms to encompass all creation.

Historical Context

Delivered during Isaiah's ministry (740-680 BC), this oracle transitions from judgments on specific nations (chapters 13-23) to universal judgment. The chapter parallels chapter 35's restoration message, showing God's dual work of judgment and redemption.
