

Isaiah 37:20

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Now therefore, O LORD our God, save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD, even thou only.

Analysis

The climactic petition "Now therefore, O LORD our God, save us from his hand" moves from theological foundation to specific request. The purpose clause "that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD, even thou only" reveals Hezekiah's primary motivation—not merely Judah's safety but God's glory among the nations. This God-centered prayer prioritizes divine reputation over personal comfort. It echoes Jesus teaching to pray "hallowed be thy name" before "give us daily bread." When God's glory is our chief concern, He delights to act.

Historical Context

The prayer for universal recognition of YHWH anticipates the Great Commission—God's salvation serves His mission to make His name known among all peoples.

Study Questions

1. How does prioritizing God's glory in our prayers align them with His purposes?
2. What does it mean to desire God's reputation more than our own relief?
3. How can we cultivate prayer life that puts God's honor above our comfort?
