

Isaiah 37:30

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And this shall be a sign unto thee, Ye shall eat this year such as groweth of itself; and the second year that which springeth of the same: and in the third year sow ye, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof.

Analysis

The "sign" given to Hezekiah provides tangible evidence of God's promise. "Ye shall eat this year such as groweth of itself" and next year "that which springeth of the same" describes two years without normal planting due to Assyrian invasion's disruption. "In the third year sow ye" promises return to normalcy, indicating Assyria will be gone. This sign requires faith—waiting two years for fulfillment tests trust. The agricultural timeline demonstrates God's promise extends beyond immediate crisis to long-term restoration.

Historical Context

Assyrian invasions disrupted agricultural cycles. Soldiers trampled fields, preventing normal planting and harvest. The sign's multi-year timeline showed God's comprehensive restoration plan.
