

Isaiah 37:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall hear a rumour, and return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

Analysis

God's promise "I will send a blast upon him" refers to divine intervention in Sennacherib's spirit—God controls even the thoughts and decisions of pagan kings (Proverbs 21:1). The prophecy that he will "hear a rumour" and return home, then "cause him to fall by the sword in his own land" predicts specific details of judgment. This demonstrates God's sovereignty over history—He doesn't merely react to events but orchestrates them according to His purposes. The precision of fulfilled prophecy validates God's word.

Historical Context

Historical records confirm Sennacherib withdrew from Judah, then was later assassinated by his sons (verse 38). The prophecy's exact fulfillment demonstrates divine foreknowledge.
