

Isaiah 38:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria: and I will defend this city.

Analysis

God's additional promise "I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria" connects Hezekiah's healing to national deliverance. The declaration "I will defend this city" shows that the king's personal healing serves larger purposes—he must live to see Jerusalem's deliverance. This demonstrates that individual lives have significance in God's comprehensive plan. Personal answered prayer sometimes serves broader kingdom purposes. God's concern extends beyond one person to encompass His people and purposes.

Historical Context

This promise came before Sennacherib's invasion (chapters 36-37), showing chronological displacement in Isaiah's arrangement. The thematic connection emphasizes God's comprehensive deliverance.

Study Questions

1. How does God sometimes extend individual lives for larger kingdom purposes?
2. What does the connection between personal and corporate deliverance teach about our significance in God's plan?
3. How should awareness of serving God's broader purposes affect our prayers and life priorities?
