

Isaiah 40:22

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

It is he that sitteth upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as grasshoppers; that stretcheth out the heavens as a curtain, and spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in:

Analysis

God's transcendent perspective is vividly portrayed: He sits above the earth's circle ('chug'), viewing inhabitants as grasshoppers. The heavens are stretched like a curtain ('doq'—thin fabric) or tent ('ohel'), emphasizing creation's ease for God. This cosmic imagery establishes God's absolute sovereignty and humans' relative insignificance.

Historical Context

The 'circle of the earth' reflects ancient cosmology while emphasizing God's transcendence over all creation. For exiles feeling small and powerless, this reminded them that God's perspective infinitely exceeds human limitations.
