

Isaiah 40:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever.

Analysis

In contrast to grass that withers and flowers that fade, God's word stands forever, unchanging and reliable. The Hebrew word 'dabar' encompasses both God's spoken word and His promises—everything He has declared remains eternally true and effective. Peter quotes this verse (1 Peter 1:23-25) to emphasize the eternal nature of the gospel message by which believers are born again. In a world of constant change and uncertainty, God's word provides an immovable foundation.

Historical Context

Isaiah ministered during political upheaval when nations rose and fell rapidly. His message emphasized that human kingdoms, no matter how powerful, are temporary—but God's word endures eternally. This truth sustained Israel through Babylonian exile and has encouraged believers through every subsequent age. The preservation of Scripture itself through millennia, despite attempts to destroy it, testifies to this promise's reliability.
