

Isaiah 42:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known: I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things straight. These things will I do unto them, and not forsake them.

Analysis

God promises to lead the blind by unknown ways, make darkness light, and crooked things straight. The Hebrew 'ivver' (blind) represents those without spiritual sight whom God guides personally. The emphatic conclusion—'I will do them, and not forsake them'—guarantees completion. God finishes what He starts.

Historical Context

This assured exiles that despite not knowing the way home or future, God would guide them. Spiritually, it promises that God leads those who trust Him through unfamiliar territory with faithful presence.
