

Isaiah 42:3

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

A bruised reed shall he not break, and the smoking flax shall he not quench: he shall bring forth judgment unto truth.

Analysis

The Servant's gentleness toward the weak is beautifully portrayed: a bruised reed ('qaneh ratsuts') He won't break, smoking flax ('pishtah kehah') He won't quench. These images depict the most fragile—nearly broken reeds and barely burning wicks—treated with utmost care. Yet this gentleness doesn't compromise truth: 'he shall bring forth judgment unto truth.'

Historical Context

This prophecy describes Christ's ministry to broken humanity—tax collectors, sinners, the sick and demon-possessed received His compassionate attention. His mission was restorative, not destructive.
