

Isaiah 43:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Thus saith the LORD, which maketh a way in the sea, and a path in the mighty waters;

Analysis

God made 'a way in the sea, and a path in the mighty waters'—recalling the Red Sea deliverance. The Hebrew 'derek' (way) and 'netivah' (path) emphasize God's ability to create passage through impossibility. This past deliverance grounds confidence for future redemption.

Historical Context

This directly references the Exodus when God split the Red Sea, demonstrating His power to deliver Israel from seemingly impossible situations. Past redemption predicts future deliverance from Babylon.
