

Isaiah 53:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise him; he hath put him to grief: when thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in his hand.

Analysis

'Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise him; he hath put him to grief: when thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in his hand.' The Hebrew 'chaphets' (pleased) doesn't mean God enjoyed the suffering but that this was His sovereign will for redemption. 'Asham' (guilt/sin offering) - specific sacrificial terminology. Yet death leads to 'prolonged days' - resurrection.

Historical Context

This verse holds together God's sovereignty over the cross, the sacrificial nature of Christ's death, and resurrection hope. The Father 'bruised' the Son for our salvation.
