

Isaiah 58:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins.

Analysis

The command 'Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet' calls for bold, uncompromising proclamation of sin. The dual address 'shew my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins' indicates that covenant community needs regular confrontation with their rebellion. This establishes that faithful preaching includes exposing sin, not just positive encouragement. God's people need prophetic rebuke, not therapeutic affirmation.

Historical Context

Isaiah's ministry included both comfort (ch. 40) and confrontation (ch. 58). The people maintained religious ritual (fasting, v. 3) while tolerating injustice, requiring prophetic exposure. True pastoral care includes 'crying aloud' against sin, as Jesus confronted Pharisees and apostles rebuked churches.
