

Isaiah 61:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me; because the LORD hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound;

Analysis

This prophetic passage, which Jesus read in the Nazareth synagogue and declared fulfilled (Luke 4:17-21), describes the Spirit-anointed Messiah's mission. 'The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me'—divine empowerment for ministry. 'Anointed me'—mashach, the root of Messiah (anointed one), designating Him for prophetic, priestly, and kingly service. His mission includes: 'preach good tidings unto the meek'—announcing the gospel (euangelion) to the humble and poor; 'bind up the brokenhearted'—healing emotional and spiritual wounds; 'proclaim liberty to the captives'—spiritual freedom from sin's bondage; 'the opening of the prison to them that are bound'—releasing those imprisoned by sin, Satan, and death. This is Christ's job description—bringing holistic salvation.

Historical Context

Isaiah likely spoke initially of his own prophetic ministry, but Jesus's application showed it pointed ultimately to Himself. The concepts of jubilee (liberty, release) rooted in Levitical law found ultimate fulfillment in Christ's spiritual liberation. When Jesus read this passage in Luke 4:18-19, He stopped mid-sentence (before 'the day of vengeance'), indicating His first coming focused on salvation; His second coming will bring judgment. The early church understood their mission continued Christ's work: preaching the gospel, healing broken hearts, liberating captives from sin through the Spirit's power.
