

Isaiah 65:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Which say, Stand by thyself, come not near to me; for I am holier than thou. These are a smoke in my nose, a fire that burneth all the day.

Analysis

'Which say, Stand by thyself, come not near to me; for I am holier than thou. These are a smoke in my nose, a fire that burneth all the day.' The supreme irony: those practicing paganism claim superior holiness! 'Stand back, I'm holier than you.' Such hypocrisy is 'smoke in my nose' (disgusting odor) and 'fire that burneth' (constant irritation). Self-righteousness amid actual sin provokes divine wrath.

Historical Context

This spiritual arrogance while practicing idolatry characterized the religious establishment that rejected prophetic calls to repentance.

Study Questions

1. How does self-righteousness coexist with actual sin?
2. What provokes God more - sin itself or self-righteous sin?
