

Isaiah 7:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Moreover the LORD spake again unto Ahaz, saying,

Analysis

---

The LORD's renewed initiative—'spoke again unto Ahaz'—demonstrates divine patience despite Ahaz's faltering faith. God graciously offers Ahaz opportunity to request a confirming sign, showing that He accommodates human weakness. This divine condescension reflects God's desire that His people walk by faith supported by evidence (John 20:29-31). The offer anticipates Gideon's fleece (Judges 6:36-40) and demonstrates that seeking confirmation isn't necessarily unbelief when done with submissive spirit.

Historical Context

---

Ahaz's crisis demanded decision—trust God or seek Assyria's help. God's offer of a sign provided tangible evidence to strengthen faith for right choice.

Related Passages

---

1 Corinthians 13:4 — Characteristics of love

John 15:13 — Greatest form of love

Study Questions

---

1. How does God's gracious offer of signs demonstrate His compassion for our weak faith?

2. When is seeking confirmation appropriate versus evidence of hardened unbelief?

Interlinear Text

---

לִאמְרָה אַתָּה אֶל דָּבָר יְהוָה הַיְדָה וְאַתָּה
again Moreover the LORD spake unto Ahaz saying

H3254 H3068 H1696 H413 H271 H559

Additional Cross-References

---

Isaiah 8:5 (References Lord): The LORD spake also unto me again, saying,

---

From KJV Study • kjvstudy.org