

Isaiah 7:13

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And he said, Hear ye now, O house of David; Is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will ye weary my God also?

Analysis

Isaiah's rebuke—shifting from addressing Ahaz personally to 'house of David'—elevates the stakes from personal choice to dynastic faithfulness. The accusation of wearying 'my God' (not just 'your God') emphasizes Ahaz's offense against divine patience. Refusing God's gracious offer exhausts divine forbearance. This introduces the Immanuel sign (v. 14) which, though immediately addressing Ahaz's crisis, ultimately points to Messiah, demonstrating that God's purposes transcend human faithlessness.

Historical Context

By invoking 'house of David,' Isaiah reminds Ahaz of covenant responsibilities. Davidic kings were to trust God, not political machinations (Psalm 20:7).

Study Questions

1. How does persistent refusal of God's grace eventually exhaust divine patience?

2. What does addressing the 'house of David' rather than Ahaz personally teach about corporate covenant responsibility?
