

James 2:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty.

Analysis

So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty.

James charges, "So speak and so do" as those who will be judged by the law of liberty (nomou eleutherias, νόμου ἐλευθερίας). Speech and action must align with the freedom-giving gospel. Judgment according to the law of liberty means believers are accountable for how they steward grace.

Reformed believers affirm that justification frees us for holy living. The law of liberty liberates us to obey; thus our words and deeds should reflect new-creation ethics.

Historical Context

---

Diaspora Christians faced scrutiny from both Jews and Gentiles. James reminds them that ultimate judgment comes from God, not earthly courts. Paul's teaching in 2 Corinthians 5:10 about appearing before Christ's judgment seat parallels this sober accountability.
