

James 2:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But ye have despised the poor. Do not rich men oppress you, and draw you before the judgment seats?

Analysis

But ye have despised the poor. Do not rich men oppress you, and draw you before the judgment seats? Yet James says, "ye have despised" (atimásate, ἠτιμάσατε) the poor. Ironically, the rich oppress (katadynasteuousin, καταδυναστεύουσιν) them and drag them (helkousin, ἔλκουσιν) into courts. Favoring abusers betrays family loyalty. The verbs evoke violence and legal exploitation common in agrarian economies.

James exposes how sinful partiality cozies up to those who harm the church. Reformed believers must discern alliances carefully lest we bless oppressors while neglecting victims.

Historical Context

Wealthy landowners controlled courts, exploiting day laborers (cf. 5:4). Diaspora Christians often faced lawsuits and confiscations. James, writing before AD 50, highlights real incidents so churches stop idolizing the rich.
