

James 4:2

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Ye lust, and have not: ye kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not.

Analysis

Ye lust, and have not: ye kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not. You desire (epithumeite, ἐπιθυμεῖτε) and do not have; you murder (phoneuete, φονεύετε) and covet yet cannot obtain; you fight and wage war. James uses hyperbole to expose the seriousness of unchecked desires leading to violence, literal or metaphorical. They do not have because they do not ask God.

Reformed thought urges prayerful dependence rather than grasping. Lust leads to destruction; prayer leads to provision aligned with God's will.

Historical Context

Economic scarcity and persecution tempted believers to compete ruthlessly. Some may have colluded with oppressors, effectively 'killing' brethren by betrayal. James redirects them to prayerful dependence rather than violent ambition.",

Study Questions

1. Where are you striving violently—literally or relationally—to obtain something?
2. How can prayer redefine your desires?
3. Who has been hurt by your grasping that needs reconciliation?
