

Jeremiah 13:19

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The cities of the south shall be shut up, and none shall open them: Judah shall be carried away captive all of it, it shall be wholly carried away captive.

Analysis

This verse announces southern devastation: 'The cities of the south shall be shut up, and none shall open them: Judah shall be carried away captive all of it, it shall be wholly carried away captive.' 'Cities of the south' (arei hanegev) refers to the Negev region, southern Judah's dry zone. 'Shut up' (suggeru) means closed, with no one to open—depopulated, abandoned. 'Judah carried away captive all of it' (galtha Yehuda kulah)—complete deportation. 'Wholly carried away' (galtha shelomim) emphasizes totality—everyone, entirely. The prophetic announcement of comprehensive exile includes even distant southern cities.

Historical Context

Nebuchadnezzar's campaigns against Judah included southern territories. Archaeological surveys confirm destruction and abandonment of Negev settlements during this period. The three deportations (605, 597, 586 BC) progressively emptied the land. The exile was indeed comprehensive—though a remnant remained, the organized society was entirely dismantled.

Study Questions

1. What does 'cities shut up with none to open' picture about post-judgment desolation?
2. How does the emphasis on 'all' and 'wholly' counter any hope of partial escape?
