

Jeremiah 15:17

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I sat not in the assembly of the mockers, nor rejoiced; I sat alone because of thy hand: for thou hast filled me with indignation.

Analysis

Jeremiah returns to complaint/prayer: 'O LORD, thou knowest: remember me, and visit me, and revenge me of my persecutors.' The appeal 'thou knowest' assumes God's omniscience of Jeremiah's suffering. Three requests: 'remember me' (don't forget my plight), 'visit me' (intervene on my behalf), 'revenge me of my persecutors' (execute justice). The plea 'take me not away in thy longsuffering' asks that God's patience with persecutors not result in Jeremiah's death before vindication. The final appeal: 'know that for thy sake I have suffered rebuke.' Jeremiah's suffering comes from faithful service, not personal sin. This imprecatory prayer seeks God's justice against those opposing His word.

Historical Context

Jeremiah faced constant persecution: imprisonment, death threats, beatings, and plots against his life from those who rejected his message. His appeals for vindication against persecutors reflect legitimate desire for God's justice.
