

Jeremiah 16:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

They shall die of grievous deaths; they shall not be lamented; neither shall they be buried; but they shall be as dung upon the face of the earth: and they shall be consumed by the sword, and by famine; and their carcases shall be meat for the fowls of heaven, and for the beasts of the earth.

Analysis

The horrific fate described: 'They shall die of grievous deaths; they shall not be lamented; neither shall they be buried; but they shall be as dung upon the face of the earth.' Multiple horrors: grievous deaths, no mourning, no burial, bodies left as refuse ('dung'). Continued: 'and they shall be consumed by the sword, and by famine; and their carcases shall be meat for the fowls of heaven, and for the beasts of the earth.' The triad (sword, famine, pestilence) plus exposure to scavengers represents total curse (Deuteronomy 28:26). This explains why Jeremiah shouldn't have children—such fates await the coming generation. The comprehensive nature of judgment makes normal life impossible.

Historical Context

These specific horrors were fulfilled during and after the Babylonian siege when countless died, burial was impossible, and bodies were left for scavengers in Jerusalem's streets and surrounding areas.

Study Questions

1. How does detailed description of coming judgment serve prophetic purposes?
2. What does denial of burial and mourning symbolize about the completeness of covenant curse?
3. How should graphic depictions of judgment affect our understanding of sin's seriousness?
