

Jeremiah 22:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

O inhabitant of Lebanon, that makest thy nest in the cedars, how gracious shalt thou be when pangs come upon thee, the pain as of a woman in travail!

Analysis

O inhabitant of Lebanon, that makest thy nest in the cedars—Jerusalem's elite inhabited palaces built with Lebanon's famous cedars, symbols of luxury and security. The verb קָנָן (qanan, 'to nest') suggests birds building high, unreachable homes—an image of false safety. But how gracious shalt thou be when pangs come upon thee, the pain as of a woman in travail! The Hebrew צִלְעָה (chil, 'writhing/anguish') describes labor pains—sudden, inescapable, increasing in intensity. The rhetorical question drips with sarcasm: when agony strikes, your luxury will not save you.

The cedar-nest image recalls Isaiah's earlier warning against pride (Isaiah 2:13) and anticipates Jesus's teaching that those who build on sand will fall catastrophically (Matthew 7:26-27). Material security creates an illusion shattered only by crisis. The birth-pang metaphor, used throughout Scripture for divine judgment (1 Thessalonians 5:3), emphasizes the sudden, inevitable nature of God's visitation. No amount of architectural grandeur can withstand His wrath.

Historical Context

King Jehoiakim notoriously built a lavish palace using cedar from Lebanon and forced labor, refusing to pay wages (Jeremiah 22:13-14). The elite class constructed similar luxury dwellings while the poor suffered. Archaeological excavations of Iron Age Jerusalem reveal impressive houses with cedar beams and ivory inlays, confirming the prophetic critique of ostentatious wealth amid injustice.
