

Jeremiah 23:30

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Therefore, behold, I am against the prophets, saith the LORD, that steal my words every one from his neighbour.

Analysis

I am against the prophets...that steal my words every one from his neighbour (גַּם־בָּנִי דָּבָרִי אִישׁ מִאֵת רַעַת־יְהוָה) —the participle גַּם־בָּנִי ('stealing') describes ongoing theft. These prophets plagiarize each other, recycling religious language without authentic divine encounter. The phrase 'every one from his neighbour' suggests echo chambers creating false consensus.

The declaration I am against (הַנִּנֵּה עַל) is terrifying—God positions Himself as enemy of religious professionals. They traffic in stolen spiritual goods—using God's vocabulary without God's voice. The eighth commandment forbids theft (Exodus 20:15); these prophets steal God's words, repackaging them without authorization.

Historical Context

Prophetic guilds created professional networks where messages circulated and successful formulas repeated. Instead of hearing God directly, they borrowed from peers. This produced theological homogeneity disconnected from actual divine revelation. Jeremiah stood alone against this consensus.
