

Jeremiah 49:39

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But it shall come to pass in the latter days, that I will bring again the captivity of Elam, saith the LORD.

Analysis

But it shall come to pass in the latter days (וְהִי בָּאָמִים, v'hayah b'acharit hayyamim)—The eschatological formula 'latter days' points beyond immediate judgment to future restoration. This phrase appears throughout prophetic literature for messianic/end-times contexts. For Elam specifically, it anticipates reversal of exile and return to blessing.

That I will bring again the captivity of Elam, saith the LORD (אָשֵׁיב אֶת-שְׁבּוֹת, ashiv et-sh'vut Elam)—The idiom shuv sh'vut (restore fortunes/turn captivity) promises comprehensive restoration: political, economic, spiritual. Remarkably, pagan Elam receives the same restoration promise given to Israel (29:14, 30:3) and other nations (48:47, 49:6). This demonstrates God's redemptive purpose extends beyond Israel to encompass all peoples. Acts 2:9's Elamites at Pentecost may represent partial fulfillment—Gentiles included in messianic salvation. Ultimate fulfillment awaits the eschaton when all nations stream to Zion (Isaiah 2:2-4).

Historical Context

Elamites did experience some restoration of cultural identity under Persian rule, though not political independence. Christian evangelization of Elam occurred early (tradition holds the apostle Thomas ministered there). But full restoration awaits Christ's return when 'the earth will be filled with knowledge of the LORD' (Habakkuk 2:14).

Study Questions

1. Why does God promise restoration to pagan nations like Elam alongside Israel?
2. How does this verse anticipate the Great Commission and Gentile inclusion in God's redemptive plan?
3. What does 'latter days' restoration reveal about God's ultimate purposes in judgment—is destruction final or remedial?
