

Jeremiah 5:28

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

They are waxen fat, they shine: yea, they overpass the deeds of the wicked: they judge not the cause, the cause of the fatherless, yet they prosper; and the right of the needy do they not judge.

Analysis

The indictment continues: 'They are waxen fat, they shine' (šāmēnû 'āšēṭû, שָׁמְנוּ אֲשֶׁטוּ)—physical prosperity from exploitation. 'Yea, they overpass the deeds of the wicked' (gam-'āḇērû dibrê-rā', גַּם-עָבְרוּ דִּבְרֵי-רָעָה) means they surpass even pagans in evil. The specific charge: 'they judge not the cause, the cause of the fatherless, yet they prosper; and the right of the needy do they not judge' (dîn lō'-dānû dîn-yāṭôm wěyašlîḥû ūmišpaṭ 'eḇyônîm lō' šāpāṭû). This pinpoints covenant violation: failing to provide justice for orphans and the poor (Exodus 22:22-24, Deuteronomy 10:18, 24:17). The orphan (yāṭôm) and poor ('eḇyôn) represent society's most vulnerable, whom covenant law specially protected. Their prosperity ('yet they prosper,' wěyašlîḥû) despite injustice demonstrates that short-term success doesn't indicate divine approval—judgment comes.

Historical Context

Ancient Near Eastern law codes (Hammurabi, Lipit-Ishtar) included provisions for protecting widows and orphans, showing universal moral awareness of this responsibility. Israel's covenant law exceeded these, making care for the vulnerable a religious obligation reflecting God's character (Psalm 68:5, 146:9). Kings were especially responsible to ensure judicial justice (Psalm 72:1-4). Judah's failure to protect the vulnerable while maintaining temple worship epitomized hypocrisy that prophets consistently condemned. Isaiah 1:17, 23 demands, 'Learn to do well; seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow'—but leaders failed. Jesus later demonstrated this priority, warning that judgment evaluates how we treat 'the least of these' (Matthew 25:31-46). James defines pure religion as caring for orphans and widows (James 1:27).
