

Jeremiah 51:15

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

He hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heaven by his understanding.

Analysis

This doxology celebrating God as Creator stands in stark contrast to Babylon's impotent idols. The threefold declaration - made earth by power, established world by wisdom, stretched heavens by understanding - ascribes all creation to God alone. Babylon's gods are 'vanity' and 'the work of errors' (v18), but YAHWEH is 'the portion of Jacob' (v19). Worship belongs to the Creator, not the created.

Historical Context

This verse is nearly identical to Jer 10:12, emphasizing the consistency of God's self-revelation. In context of Babylon's fall, it grounds God's sovereignty over nations in His role as Creator.

Study Questions

1. How does remembering God as Creator affect your confidence in His control of current events?

2. What 'vanities' and 'errors' tempt you to trust in created things rather than the Creator?
