

Jeremiah 52:28

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

This is the people whom Nebuchadrezzar carried away captive: in the seventh year three thousand Jews and three and twenty:

Analysis

The precise enumeration of exiles taken in three deportations (in years seven, eighteen, and twenty-three of Nebuchadnezzar) demonstrates the historical accuracy of Scripture and God's sovereign control over details. The relatively small numbers (3,023, 832, and 745) suggest these were counts of family heads, not total populations. God's covenant people were reduced to a remnant, yet preserved.

Historical Context

These deportations occurred in 597, 586, and 581 BC respectively. The numbering of the remnant echoes God's preservation of a faithful seed throughout Israel's history.

Related Passages

1 John 4:8 — God is love

1 Corinthians 13:4 — Characteristics of love

Study Questions

1. How do detailed historical records in Scripture strengthen your faith?

2. What does God's preservation of a remnant teach about His covenant faithfulness?

Interlinear Text

זֶה	הָעָם	אֲשֶׁר	הִגָּלָה	נְבוּכַדְרֶאצַּר
H2088	This is the people	H834	carried away captive	whom Nebuchadrezzar
	H5971		H1540	H5019
בְּשָׁנָה	שֶׁבַע	יְהוּדִים	וּשְׁלֹשָׁה:	אֶלֶף	יָמִים	וּשְׁלֹשָׁה:
year	in the seventh	Jews	and three	thousand	and twenty	and three
H8141	H7651	H3064	H7969	H505	H6242	H7969

From KJV Study • kjevstudy.org