

Job 13:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But ye are forgers of lies, ye are all physicians of no value.

Analysis

'But ye are forgers of lies, ye are all physicians of no value.' Job's accusation escalates. 'Forgers' (תֹּפְלִים, tofeley) means plasterers or whitewashers—they cover truth with 'lies' (שָׁקֵר, shaqer—falsehood, deception). They're 'physicians of no value' (רֹפָאִים אֲלָלִים, rofey elil—healers of worthlessness). The medical metaphor is devastating: doctors who misdiagnose and prescribe wrong treatment harm rather than heal. Ezekiel 13:10 uses similar imagery for false prophets whitewashing rotten walls. The friends' orthodox theology applied wrongly becomes destructive. This warns against theological malpractice—using truth to wound. The Reformed emphasis on applying Scripture correctly warns against this danger.

Historical Context

Ancient physicians had limited diagnostic tools and often prescribed useless or harmful treatments. Job's metaphor would resonate as a scathing indictment of the friends' harmful counsel disguised as wisdom.
