

Job 14:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For now thou numberest my steps: dost thou not watch over my sin?

Analysis

Job contrasts potential future grace with present experience: 'For now thou numberest my steps: dost thou not watch over my sin?' In Job's imagination of restoration, God numbers steps not to judge but to guide. Yet presently, he feels God watches only to condemn. The Hebrew 'shamar' (watch over) can mean both 'guard protectively' and 'observe suspiciously.' Job longs for interpretation to shift from the latter to the former.

Historical Context

The concept of God numbering or counting human actions appears throughout wisdom literature (Psalm 56:8, 139:16). Whether this accounting brings comfort or fear depends on one's understanding of God's character and purposes.
