

Job 17:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For thou hast hid their heart from understanding: therefore shalt thou not exalt them.

Analysis

For thou hast hid their heart from understanding (כִּי־לִבָּם צָפַנְתָּ הַשְׂכָּל, ki-libbam tsafanta mi-sakel)—Job addresses God directly: tsafanta (you have hidden/concealed) indicates divine agency in his friends' blindness. Sakel (understanding/insight/wisdom) is the discernment they lack despite their verbose arguments. This echoes Isaiah 6:9-10 and anticipates Jesus's teaching on spiritual blindness (Matthew 13:13-15).

Therefore shalt thou not exalt them (עַל־כֵּן לֹא תִרְוּמֵם, al-ken lo teromem)—Teromem (exalt, lift up) means vindication or honor. Job prophesies that God will not honor his friends' false theology—a prophecy fulfilled in 42:7-9 when God rebukes them and requires Job's intercession for their forgiveness.

Historical Context

Ancient Near Eastern wisdom traditions valued elders and counselors as bearers of divine insight. Job's shocking claim—that God has hidden truth from these respected friends—overturns conventional authority. God's later vindication of Job (42:7) confirms that orthodoxy without compassion is spiritual blindness.
