

Job 19:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Know now that God hath overthrown me, and hath compassed me with his net.

Analysis

Job accuses God directly: 'Know now that God hath overthrown me, and hath compassed me with his net.' The hunting metaphor depicts God as hunter who has trapped Job. This brutal honesty about experiencing God as adversary models authentic lament that doesn't minimize divine responsibility.

Historical Context

Ancient hunting practices used nets to capture prey. Job's metaphor suggests divine intent and inescapability, yet maintains relationship through direct address.
