

Job 5:11

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

To set up on high those that be low; that those which mourn may be exalted to safety.

Analysis

---

Eliphaz declares God 'setteth up on high those that be low; that those which mourn may be exalted to safety.' The Hebrew 'rum' (set high/exalt) and 'yesha' (safety/salvation) describe God's pattern of lifting the humble. This is true—God does exalt the humble (James 4:10, 1 Peter 5:6). But Eliphaz wrongly implies that Job's continued low estate proves he's not truly humble, and that genuine humility would have already brought restoration. This ignores that God's timing differs from human expectations.

Historical Context

The reversal of fortunes—exalting the lowly—is a common theme in ancient Near Eastern wisdom literature and appears throughout Scripture (1 Samuel 2:7-8, Luke 1:52).
