

Job 5:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

He disappointeth the devices of the crafty, so that their hands cannot perform their enterprise.

Analysis

Eliphaz praises God who 'disappointeth the devices of the crafty, so that their hands cannot perform their enterprise.' The Hebrew 'parar' (break/frustrate) and 'tushiyah' (enterprise/wisdom) describe God's sovereign disruption of wicked plans. This is true theology (Psalm 33:10), but Eliphaz subtly implies Job must be among the 'crafty' whose plans God frustrated. True application would recognize that God sometimes allows the righteous to suffer while ultimately ensuring the wicked's plans fail.

Historical Context

Ancient Near Eastern wisdom literature frequently celebrated divine disruption of evil plots. Eliphaz uses this true theological principle to make false accusations about Job's character.

Study Questions

1. How do you maintain faith that God will ultimately frustrate evil when it seems to temporarily prosper?
2. What does God's disruption of wicked plans teach us about His sovereignty over history?
