

Job 5:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

They meet with darkness in the daytime, and grope in the noonday as in the night.

Analysis

Eliphaz describes the wicked's fate: 'They meet with darkness in the daytime, and grope in the noonday as in the night.' The imagery reverses natural order—darkness during day represents divine judgment and confusion. The Hebrew 'mashash' (grobe) suggests blind fumbling. Eliphaz implies Job's confusion and inability to understand his suffering proves he's among the wicked experiencing divine judgment. Yet Scripture shows that even the righteous sometimes walk in darkness (Isaiah 50:10), trusting God despite lack of understanding.

Historical Context

Darkness at noon as divine judgment appears throughout Scripture (Amos 8:9, Matthew 27:45). Eliphaz uses this imagery to characterize Job's state as the result of wickedness rather than divine testing.

Study Questions

1. How do you maintain faith when you cannot see God's purposes in your circumstances?
2. What does it mean to walk in darkness while still trusting in the Lord (Isaiah 50:10)?
