

John 12:26

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

If any man serve me, let him follow me; and where I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will my Father honour.

Analysis

Jesus defines discipleship: serving requires following, following requires sharing His location, and the Father honors servants. The progression moves from service to presence to reward. Following Jesus means accompanying Him through death and resurrection. Servants don't choose their path but follow their master. The promise that 'where I am, there shall also my servant be' guarantees eternal communion—disciples share Christ's destiny. The Father's honoring servants demonstrates that humble service receives divine recognition. True greatness is servanthood.

Historical Context

The servant-master relationship was well-understood in first-century culture. Servants literally followed masters throughout the day, available for any task. This imagery makes Jesus' call to radical availability clear.
