

John 12:38

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

That the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, Lord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed?

Analysis

John quotes Isaiah 53:1, applying the suffering servant prophecy to Jesus' rejection. 'Who hath believed our report?' anticipates widespread rejection. 'The arm of the Lord' symbolizes divine power revealed in Messiah. Isaiah predicted that few would recognize God's power in the suffering servant. This Old Testament prophecy explained the first century's mass unbelief, demonstrating Scripture's prophetic accuracy. The question 'who?' implies 'very few,' validated by Jesus' experience. Belief is divine gift, not human achievement, since the arm of the Lord must be revealed.

Historical Context

Isaiah 53 is the Bible's clearest suffering servant prophecy, written 700 years before Christ. Early Christians extensively used this chapter to understand Jesus' death and interpret Jewish rejection.
