

John 4:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

When therefore the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard that Jesus made and baptized more disciples than John,

Analysis

Jesus' knowledge that the Pharisees had heard about His growing ministry demonstrates His omniscience and awareness of developing opposition. The comparison between Jesus and John sets up the transition of ministries—the lesser must decrease as the greater increases. Christ's sovereign awareness extends to all circumstances, including political and religious threats.

Historical Context

Pharisaic opposition to Jesus began early in His ministry (c. 28 AD). Their concern about His success relative to John the Baptist reflects their anxiety about uncontrolled religious movements.

Study Questions

1. How does Christ's omniscient awareness of all opposition encourage us when facing hostility?

2. What does it mean that Christ's ministry supersedes even the greatest human ministry (John's)?
